General Meade says:—

I beg leave to state that I have no instructions to give you further than to make known that, in my judgment, neither house is organized legally until it has complied with the requisitions of the reconstruction acts and the act which became a law on June 26, 1868, all of which prohibit any one holding an office under the State who is excluded by section three of the amendment to the constitution known as article fourteen. It is not my purpose to dictate to the two houses how or when they will apply these tests to the several members; but in view of the fact of the Legislature, until the State is admitted by compliance with the requirements of the acts of Congress, is only provisional and subject to the authority of the District Commander, and in view of the further fact that it is my duty, so long as military government exists, to see that the law be faithfully executed.

He again avows himself in favor of qualified colored suffrage. He says it is idle to expect any relief in regard to universal suffrage from the democratic party. If the Southern governments in 1871 are declared void the States will be left in a condition of annerby. If the Supreme Court declares them unconstitutional, he asks what constitutions will be in force and what officers reinstated. He says that we should depend on ourselves only, and speaks of the harmony that existed between himself and the District Commander. In conclusion he says the principles and purposes avowed by his successor, Governor Scott, with reference to the interests of the State, are wise and patriotic, and he invites the people to give his administration a full and fair trial before its condemnation.

Democratic Mass Meeting at Tammany Hall.

THE NOMINATIONS ACCEPTED.

Speech.'s of Ex-Governor Seymour and General Blair.

Last Scene of the Convention Farce.

Tammany Hall was last evening the scene of the concluding act of the great Democratic Convention farce commenced on Saturday last. Ex-Governor Seymour, the principal candidate on the democratic ticket for the Presidency, announced his intention to appear in public and accept the nomination made by the Convention appointing him the standard bearer of the party in the coming campaign. General Blair, the candidate for the Vice Presidency, it was also announced, would appear and go through his part of the act at the same time and on the same stage. Eight o'clock was the hour fixed for the appearance of the chief actors, and prompt to time they presented themselves be-fore their friends, the democratic audience invited to the reserved seats throughout the hall. The building was crammed to suffocation, while the street in able to effect an entrance inside, were to have an entertainment outside. The front of the wigwam was brilliantly illuminated, and bands of music and firing of cannon gave all the needful eclat to the oc-and nominated for presiding officer Samuel J. Tilden, who, previous to the arrival of Governor Seymour, addressed the audience upon the issues of the cor test. He said that the democratic party were destined to preserve and restore the great framework of American constitutional government and to refound the government on the liberties of the people, and that they were to restore in every part of the Continent local self-government to every integral portion of the American people. He was willing to predict a giorious victory for democratic principles under the lead of Seymour and Blair.

Mr. TILDEN—I now present to you General Morgan of Ohio, the chairman of the committee appointed by the National Convention to tender to Horatio Sey-mour the nomination for President of the United mour the nomination for President of the United States, and I present to you also Horatio Seymour. General Morgan and Governor Seymour rose from their seats and advanced towards the president's desk amid a storm of enthusiastic cheering, which was repeated again and again. It was continued for some minutes, so that it was impossible for Mr. Seymour to do anything else but bow his acknowledgments for the compliment.

General Morgan, of Ohio, said:—Governor Seymour, on behalf of the committee appointed for that purpose, I have the honor, sir, to presentio you this communication (here Governor Morgan handed Mr. Seymour the letter addressed to him by the committee) announcing your unanimous nomination as candiate for the office of President of the United States by the National Democratic Convention; and on bedate for the omec of Pressent of the United States by the National Democratic Convention; and on be-half, sir, of the conservative and democratic people of the States we have the honor to represent, we here pledge their united and cordial efforts in secur-isg relief to the country from the thraidom which now oppresses it, and in placing you, sir, as the chosen Chief Magistrate of the nation in the execu-tive chair.

chosen Chief Magistrate of the nation in the executive chair.

RESPONSE OF GOVERNOR SEYMOUR.

MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMITTEE—I thank you for the courteous terms in which you have communicated to me the action of the Democratic National Convention. I have no words adequate to express my gratuide for the good will and kindness which that body has shown to me. Its nomination was unsought and unexpected. It was my ambition to take an active part, from which I am now excluded, in the great struggle going on for the restoration of good government of peace and prosperity to our country. (Great cheering.) But I have been caught up by the whelming tide that is bearing us on to a great political change, and I find myself unable to resist its pressure. (Applause.) You have also given to me a copy of the resolutions put forth by the Convention, showing its position upon all the great questions which now agitate the country. As the presiding officer of that Convention, I am familiar with their scope and import, and as one of its members I am a party to their terms; they are in accord with my views, and I stand upon them in the with their scope and import, and as one of its members I am a party to their terms; they are in accord with my views, and I stand upon them in the contest upon which we are now entering; and I shall strive to carry them out in future wherever I may be placed in public or private life. (Applause.) I congratalate you, and all conservative men who seek to restore order, peace, prosperity and good government to cur land, upon the evidences everywhere shown that we are to triumph at the lext election. (Prolonged cheering.) Those who are politically opposed to us flattered themselves there would be discord in our councils; they mistook the uncertainties of our views as to the best methods of carrying out our purposes for difference of opinion with regard to those purposes. They mistook an intense anxiety to do no act which should not be wise and judicious for a spirit of discord; but during the lengthened proceedings and earnest discussions of the Convention there has prevailed an entire harmony of intercourse, a patient forbearance and a self-sacrificing spirit which are the sure tokens of a coming victory. Accept for yourselves, gentlemen, my wishes for your future welfare and happiness. (Cheers.) In a lew days I will answer the communication you have just handed me by letter, as is the customary form. (Tremendous and long continued cheering.)

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Seymour was again loudly cheered by the assembinge and immediately retired.

Mr. Tilden—I have the honor now to present to this meeting Major General Francis P. Blair, Jr. This announcement was also received with loud cheers.

(General Morgan handed General Blair the letter tendering the nomination.)

RESPONSE OF GENERAL BLAIR.

General Blair responded as follows:—I accept the platform of resolutions passed by the late Democratic Convention, and I accept their nomination with feelings of the most profound gratitude. And, sir, I thank you for the very kind manner in which you have conveyed to me the decision of the Democratic Convention. I accept the nomination with the feeling that your nomination for the Presidency is one which will carry us to certain victory—(applause)—and because I believe that that nomination is the most appropriate nomination that could be made by the Democratic Gouvention. The contest which we wage is for the restoration of constitutional government—(cheers)—and it is appropriate that we should make this contest under the lead of one who has given his life to the maintenance of constitutional government—(cheers)—and it is appropriate that we should make this contest under the lead of one who has given his life to the maintenance of constitutional government which belong to our reace. And, my fellow citizens, it is most proper that we should select for our leader a man, not from military life, but one who has devoted himself to the study, to the understanding of our constitution and its maintenance with all the force of reason and judgment. REMARKS OF COLONEL YEGER.

Colonel Yeger, of Mississippi, was the next speaker. As a Mississippian he would say a great deal of the honors to-day claimed by General Grant were won by General Sherman. (Cheers for Sherman.)

The people had a great duty to perform. The question before the people was one of life and therty. They must roll back the tide of despotism that was sweeping over the land. The South was in a condition to excite the sympathies and arouse the anger of all free men. Every vote cast in November next by the democrats of the country will be a vote not for the success of a party, but for the salvation of their beloved country itself. The question was whether this was to be a white man's government or a black man's government. (Cheers.) Will three millions of freedmen rule the South or eight millions of whites? (Lond cries of "No," during which the speaker retired.)

millions of freedmen rule the South or eight millions of whites? (Loud cries of "No," during which the speaker retired.)

REMARKS OF MR. J. R. FELLOWS.

J. R. FELLOWS. Of Arkansas, next addressed the meeting. He referred to the operation of the Reconstruction law and the influence of this act upon the people of the South. That which bore heaviest on the land were the reconstruction measures of a radical Congress. Would the North permit the necks of white men to be loaded with the chains placed by a radical Congress in the hands of the negroy (Cries of "No.") From the surrender of Lee down to this moment, he asserted, the South had ever been honest and sincere in their desire to resume their place in the Union, and to become loyal citizen as they were before the war. The South, however, knew of no Union cemented by frauds. They desired the oid Union—the Union of mutual interests. The South particularly compasined that the radical party enranchised blacks and distranchised whites, because they are whites and opposed to radical rule. The radical party have violated the constitution in that it punished the States for a crime which only individuals could commit. And they have denied to a large portion of the educated and intelligent people of the South the right of suffrage and conferred it on the half brutalized blacks of the South just redeemed from slavery. This was the greatest wrong that had been indicted on the South and the hardest to bear. He relied on the great democratic party of the country to remove these and other evils from the South, and to that end the South itself would cast its whole vote for the nominee of the party. (Cheers.)

Other speakers followed, and at a late hour the meeting broke up.

THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' CONVENTION.

The Executive Committee of the Soldiers and Sailors' Convention assembled yesterday morning at ten o'clock at No. 35 East Seventeenth street, for the purpose of organization. General James McQuade, of Utica, N. Y., was chosen chairman; Colonel James R. O'Beirn, of Washington, recording secretary, and General S. M. Zulick, of Philadelphia, corresponding secretary. Colonel Kingsley, of Boston; General J. W. Denver, of California, and Colonel L. D. Camp-bell, of Onio, were appointed a sub-executive com-bell, of Onio, were appointed a sub-executive committee.

There was a full attendance of the members and a good deal of time was devoted to the discussion of the nomination made yesterday. There was unanimous satisfaction with the name of Biair on the ticket, but the candidate for the Presidency provoked much inharmonious comment. They say the democratic party has been true to itself in this nomination, and by rejecting Chase has shown how little real advance it it has made within the past eight years. Seymour induces no particle of enthusiasm among the soldiers, and but for the presence on the ticket of a good Union soldier would be passed by unheeded.

The register of the delegates shows a total of twenty-three hundred names, among whom are over six hundred general officers. As far as the soldiers and sallors are concerned their Convention has been a splendid success.

THE PLAINS.

Railroad-Progress of the Work-The In-dians Leaving-Everything Quiet on the INPANTAY CAMP, END OF TRACK, MONUMENTS, Kansas, July 3, 1868. At the terminus of the eastern division of the Union Pacific Railway is the camp of the Thirtyeighth infantry, at present under the command of Captain J. B. Cunningham. In the tents there are not more than sixty men. A portion of the regiment, under Captain Clous, is on the move, following the workmen of the railroad, who are laying down the track westward towards Fort Wallace, for the protection of railroad property. Squads of men are also stationed at each water tank between this and Fort Hays, to defend them against straggling bands of Indians. The camp is pitched on the open plain, wholly unsheltered and unsupplied with water, except the paltry three barrels a day which the railroad company furnishes by each morning train. Ice is also very scant, and is supplied to the officers at twenty-five cents a pound. Notwithstanding that the company is so much indebted to the troops for the protection of the road there are not many courtesies extended either to officers or men; but whether this be due to the instructions of the directors or the ungraciousness of the employes it is not for me to say, but that it is very bad policy, to say nothing of the ingratitude, is manifest.

This division of the road is now completed to this point, a distance of 400 miles from the Kansas State line and 683 from St. Louis. While the work of laypoint, a distance of 400 miles from the Kansas State line and 683 from St. Louis. While the work of laying the track some forty miles further on is still going on, the postponement of the question of subsidy until the next session of Congress may interfere with its progress. The company received a subsidy of $16,000 per mile for the eastern portion of the road, and they require $28,000 and as high as $48,000 per mile for the more diment sections further west. A grant of land extending twenty miles at each side of the road has also been made. Of these lands the company now have on sale two million acres, at prices from $5 to $10 an acre. Million acres, at prices from $5 to $10 an acre. Million acres, at prices from $5 to $10 an acre. Much of these lands is in good agricultural condition, pretty well watered by the Kaw and Kansas rivers and tributary creeks. Probably the best sections are to be found from Leavenworth to Ellsworth. Beyond that point you approach a desert country, with scarcely an oasis for hundreds of miles. The towns of Ellsworth and Hays are likely to be permanent settlements, as there is a wagon train trade in transitus that will hold them together, despite the lack of agricultural surroundings, and there is already a good deal of wealth accumulated there. Coyotte is only to be traced in the debris of that town, shingle roofs lying prostrate, and half demolished mud walls beside the track. The wooden houses have been carted off, and now skirt the margin of this camp, and are dignified by the name of Monuments City. That it is not devoid of comforts is established by the fact that you can indulge in a game of billiards, an oyster stew, which at the present temperature requires no. fire to cook; a coolined dripk and the luxury of a shave by a barber with a six-shooter stuck in his beit. Buffalo are not visible here just now. Antelope are scarce. Budgers, juck rabbits and prairie dogs are here only game. I nelice a general dearth of buffalo on the Plains this year. For the past month they are not ing the track some forty miles further on is still

I may add here that the Indians rarely understand half the purport of the treaties which they sign, any more than they are aware of the amount of the ansantes for which they give receipts to the agents. The consequence is continual discontent and suspicion, which cannot be removed by any number of new the consequence of the Third infantry, chief of government scouts in this district, who has been among ernment scouts in this district, who has been among ernment scouts in this district, who has been among the Northe, Indians.
